

PETIT BOURGEOIS CABERNET

(Vin de Pays du Jardin de la France)

Cabernet Franc, the glory of the immortal Cheval Blanc, doesn't always get the attention it deserves. But in days past it was celebrated by Rabelais and Villon as the essence of pleasure. With aromas of crushed redcurrants and strawberries it has the freshness of Beaujolais and the lighter Burgundies, while on the palate it is firmer and closer to Bordeaux. Here it gives an honest country wine, delicious with paté and other picnic fare.
