LES HOUX

Muscadet de Sèvre et Maine

Les Houx, ‘the hollybush’, is a single vineyard with unusual soils: a mixture of sandstone, gravel, quartz, and iron-rich clay over orthogneiss. What that mouthful means is a soil rich in mineral character, which would normally be used for red wines. Here it gives an unusually muscular version of Muscadet, one that is even more salty and stony than usual. We love this wine. It can age a very long time. But we’ve never held out that long.
